DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-15, drawn to communication device, classified in class 358, subclass 1.15.
 - II. Claims 16-31 drawn to computer device classified in class 726, subclass 16.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions Groups I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different function, or different effects (MPEP806.04, MPEP 808.01). In the instant case, the different invention are Groups I, II, III, and IV.

Group I involves a method, comprising: receiving a command to set a fax/scan device to a "Receive Fax to PC" or "Scan-To PC" mode, wherein faxes sent or images scanned to the fax/scan device will be forwarded to a designated master host computing device; determining if a master host computing device is currently designated for the fax/scan device; if a master host computing device is currently designated for the fax/scan device, declining to set the fax/scan device to the "Receive Fax to PC" or "Scan-To PC" mode; if a master host computing device is not currently designated for the fax/scan device, generating a master host identifier; and transmitting the master host identifier to be stored on the fax/skan device, thereby setting the fax/skan device to the "Receive Fax to PC" or "Scan-To PC" mode.

Group II, involves A computing device, comprising: a processor; memory; a fax/skan driver stored in the memory configured to communicate with a fax/skan device and set the fax/skan device designating the computing device as a master host computing device, wherein faxes or scanned data received by the fax/skan device are transmitted to a master host computing device; a master host identifier generator configured to uniquely identify the computing device that is the master host computing device; and wherein the master host identifier is transmitted to the fax/skan device for storage therein, so that the computing device continues to be the master host computing device for the fax/skan device as long as the master host identifier is stored in the fax/skan device, and one or more computer-readable media containing computer-executable instructions that, when executed on a computer.

3. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply: (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification; (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter; (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;(e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
